

THE ROADS ARE CALLING

words and music Madeleine Östlund

I hear the call
I hear my name
I hear the roads are calling I must stand up and wander the drums are sounding stronger a blast of air is driving me out I hear the beat from all directions I know the goal is in my heart, but I must walk on one step in trust, one step in fear and I must walk on to search it all and then return from it all I must stand up and wander the call is now, the promptings are now to walk a thousand roads of the world and let them all be singing in my veins
